The Speights of Rugby * - Photographers

[* And at Market Harborough, Nuneaton, Kettering, Leamington Spa, Redditch and Sutton Coldfield]

Edward Hall Speight, headmaster turned photographer, worked in Rugby from the early 1870s. His subjects ranged from town scenes to family groups, from the workhouse poor to local worthies, including the Brooke family and their son who was the famous Poet, Rupert Brooke. He had eight children: his elder daughter and six sons all became photographers, as did a grand-daughter. The sons set up studios in Market Harborough, Exmouth, Nuneaton, Kettering, Leamington Spa, Redditch and Sutton Coldfield.

The author, John Frearson, is a researcher and family historian, living in Rugby, who came upon some photographs by Gulliver Speight, found that he was born in Rugby, and had to know more! Both books are published by John Frearson Publications.
